Inter VISTAS joins DHV Group

Inter VISTAS Consulting Inc. announced today the creation of a transportation and tourism global alliance with the conclusion of an agreement to join the DHV Group.

Inter VISTAS will be working closely with Delcan, Innova, and NACO, all part of the DHV Group. This new relationship completes a high profile, internationally experienced team of recognized experts in transportation, aviation and tourism. This merger will combine the proven excellence of the four companies to continue providing outstanding customer service, as well as bring additional depth and resources to innovative solutions to solve client needs.

"Each of our new partners will bring expanded capabilities to Inter VISTAS as we continue to deliver strategic solutions in the transportation, aviation and tourism sectors," said Gerry Bruno, President and CEO of Inter VISTAS Consulting Inc. "Our dynamic team of transportation, tourism, environmental planning and economic development professionals assist private and public sector clients in developing and achieving their visions and potential. Joining forces with DHV, NACO, Delcan and Innova will open a new and exciting chapter in our work for our clients," Bruno said.

Delcan's Chairman and CEO, Jim Kerr, indicated that "our strategic partnership with Inter VISTAS and its transportation industry focus provide synergy for both firms. Delcan sees significant opportunities to expand our business in transportation infrastructure and intelligent transportation systems. We are excited about this new partnership and the additional value it brings not only to our client base, but to the transportation industry in general."

"This partnership brings an excellent opportunity to further expand our business," said Roel Overakker, Chairman of NACO and Global Director of DHV's Aviation Group. "Our clients require customized services and our approach is Local Delivery of Global Solutions. The consolidated team expands our ability to provide local delivery via a team of global experts."

With its roots in Vancouver Airport Authority, Inter VISTAS was created in 1999, when local airport employees purchased the former YVR-VISTAS, a subsidiary of the Airport Authority.

"All of us at Vancouver Airport Authority are proud of what Inter VISTAS has accomplished at home and around the world over the past nine years," noted Larry Berg, President and CEO, Vancouver Airport Authority. "This latest international opportunity reinforces the tremendous potential of Inter VISTAS as one of the transportation industry's top consulting firms, a real credit to the employee-owners who have grown the business in recent years."

Consulting services to be provided by the Group include: strategic planning; marketing; air service development; airport finance; commercial and retail development; border and security planning; customer satisfaction measurement; aviation data services; economic analysis; environmental planning and analysis; economic development; airport planning; engineering; network/revenue modelling; airport design; transportation services; technology development; and program management.
